PREFACE.

It was at one time my intention to have printed a catalogue of all the manuscripts in the various libraries of the University, but, upon consideration, I concluded that it would not be well for a private individual to undertake the accomplishment of such a work, unless it were published under the immediate superintendence of the University authorities. A Catalogue of the Cambridge Manuscripts by a Member of the University, would be liable to imperfect criticism out of doors, as proceeding from and sanctioned by the University itself. I was unwilling to subject my Alma Mater to the possibility of any attack being instituted on the ground of not performing its undertakings with proper effect; I was fully aware that I could not effectually guard against such an attack; and I have, therefore, preferred to offer the following pages to the reader, as mere rough notes of a few of the inestimable treasures, in the department of manuscripts, which our noble and ancient University possesses.

I beg leave to offer my respectful and grateful thanks to the Rev. John Lodge, the learned Librarian of the University, who has always most kindly and most liberally aided my researches among the MSS. in the Public Library.

Paper, in duodecimo. In three volumes. xvij. Cent.

Papers relating to the Somers family about 1620, Sir Thomas Fairfax's two memorials, genealogical schemes of divers families of the nobility, and other things of small value.

I may here observe that most manuscripts of this class are very minutely and laboriously described by Dr. Nasmith, much more so than the nature of their contents appear to require. I have usually followed Mr. Hunter's excellent analysis, except in cases where treatises occur which have no connexion with English history: and I have seldom thought it expedient to notice anonymous theological tracts and sermons, which are so numerous in these miscellaneous collections of the seventeenth century, unless they contain something individually or generally of interest.

Dd. xiv.—26.

Two quarto volumes of tracts.

Registrum vetus cartarum et aliarum literarum patentium et clausarum conventus ecclesiæ Christi Cantuar., 1285–1327.

Dr. Nasmith, in his manuscript catalogue, has been at the pains of making an analytical list of the contents of this volume, giving a description of five hundred and sixty-eight articles. It is almost unnecessary to observe that such minuteness of detail, which has been given by Dr. Nasmith in his accounts of this and other cartularies in this Library, is wholly uncalled for; and it would be ridiculous to pursue his plan in any catalogue destined to be comprised within reasonable limits. The unequal manner in which Dr. Nasmith's work has been prepared, renders this note somewhat necessary.

PART II.

SELECTIONS.

TRINITY COLLEGE.

A catalogue of the manuscripts in this library was made in the year 1697, by Laughton, and printed in Bernard's Bibliotheca, p. 93. Gale's collection was subsequently added, but is also found in Bernard's general catalogue. Several original MSS. of the celebrated poet Milton are preserved in this library, which, together with some copybooks of Prince Henry, son of James I., are lions shewn to visitors. This library is particularly rich in early English literature, and the copies of Chaucer Lydgate, Gower, &c. are extremely valuable. A large collection of Newton's letters to Cotes, principally relating to the publication of the second edition of the Principia, is also preserved in this collection.

ST. JOHN'S COLLEGE.

No catalogue of the MSS. in this college has ever been printed, although numerous and valuable. They require to be arranged by some competent person. A MS. catalogue, of little value, is in the case, and mentions a copy of Bernelius de abaco, in two folio volumes, which however I was unable to discover in a brief search for it about three years since. It is, however, almost unnecessary to observe that every facility is afforded, even under these disadvantages, to persons engaged in archæological researches.

CAIUS COLLEGE.

There are many valuable and curious MSS. in the library of this college, a catalogue of which is given by Bernard. One very curious collection of early English metrical romances, contains an unique copy of the romance of King Athelstan. I believe that a catalogue of these MSS. is in preparation by the Rev. J. J. Smith, the learned tutor of this college.

CORPUS CHRISTI COLLEGE.

A good catalogue of the extremely valuable collection in the library of this college was published by Dr. Nasmith. In point of value and rarity, the collection may almost be compared to the Cottonian. Much misapprehension prevails relative to the original regulations concerning this library, the very strict rules now preserved not being by any means coeval with the testament of the founder. Any alteration must, however, be made with great caution.

EMMANUEL COLLEGE.

A catalogue of the MSS. in this college is given by Bernard. Here is preserved a copy of Wickliffe's translation of the bible.

SIDNEY SUSSEX COLLEGE.

A catalogue of the MSS. in this college is also given by Bernard.

JESUS COLLEGE.

The excellent library belonging to this college has never had justice done to it. There are several curious MSS., some of which formerly belonged to the monastery of St. Cuthbert, at Durham. A very curious catalogue of the books in the monastery of Rievaulx, made in the fourteenth century, is also preserved in this library. I may likewise mention a collection of the minor poems of John Lydgate, and a Latin Chronicle of English events from the year 1042 to the battle of Lewes in 1264. A transcript of this chronicle is preserved in Tanner's collection in the Bodleian, No. 383.

ST. PETER'S COLLEGE.

A continuation of the Brute chronicle by Warkworth, master of this college, in the fifteenth century, was printed by the Camden Society, from a MS. in the college library. Bernard has given us a catalogue of the MSS. belonging to this college.

PEMBROKE HALL.

Dr. James made a catalogue of the MSS. in the library in this hall in 1600, which has been reprinted by Bernard. Mr. Hartshorne has given copious extracts from a MS. History of the college by Wren, formerly master.

KINGS' COLLEGE.

In this library is preserved a fine Latin psalter, written upon vellum, about four spans long by three broad, accompanied with musical chaunts, which was taken from the library of Osorius, bishop of Cadiz, at the taking of that city in 1596 by the Earl of Essex. Hentzer, in the account of his travels in England in 1598, particularly describes this MS. as then being in the library of this college. An unique copy of the curious romance of William and the Werwolf, edited by Sir F. Madden for the Roxburghe club, is preserved in this college.

TRINITY HALL.

There are very few MSS. in the library of this college. The most important are described by Mr. Hunter, in his report on the Cambridge libraries. A copy of the Epistolæ Thomæ à Becket, and an early French translation of Boetius de Consolatione Philosophiæ, may also be mentioned.

THE PEPYSIAN.

This library belongs to Magdalen college, and a catalogue of the few MSS. which it contains was published by Bernard.

Among them is a curious musical manuscript of the time of Henry VII.

FITZWILLIAM MUSEUM.

Queen Elizabeth's Virginal Book is preserved in this Museum, together with other valuable musical manuscripts. The Rev. Samuel Tillbrook of St. Peter's college, presented three autograph letters of Oliver Cromwell, which have been recently published in the Cambridge Portfolio by the Rev. J. J. Smith.

DOWNING COLLEGE.

In this college are preserved some manuscripts relating to Cambridge, bequeathed by Mr. Bowtell, among which is a history of Cambridge by himself.
